

SENTENTIAE, CH. XXV

Practice and Review # 6–8, 16

6. Cūr iūcundus Horātius culpas hūmānās in saturīs semper ostendēbat atque rīdēbat?

7. Crēdimus fidem antīquam omnibus gentibus iterum alendam esse.

8. Dux, ad senātum missus, imperium accēpit et imperātor factus est.

16. We hope that the judge's wife will write those two letters tomorrow.

Sententiae Antiquae #9-12

1. Dīcō tē, Pyrrhe, Rōmānōs posse vincere. (Ennius.—Pyrrhus, ī., name of a Greek king)
2. Dīc, hospes, Spartaē tē nōs hīc iacentēs vīdisse, patriae fidēlēs. (Cicero; epigram on the Spartans who died at Thermopylae.—hospes, -pitis, m., stranger.—Spartae, to Sparta.)
3. Sōcratēs putābat sē esse cīvem tōtīus mundī. (Cicero.)
4. Illī magistrī negant quemquam virum esse bonum nisi sapientem. (Cicero.—quisquam, quidquam, anyone, anything; any.)