

As of 2008, 13 out of 126 medical schools require biochemistry. These schools are:

Mayo Clinic College of Medicine (no lab required)
University of Michigan (no lab required)
University of Minnesota (no lab required)
University of Nebraska (no lab required)
University of New Mexico (no lab required)
Oregon Health and Science University School of Medicine (one semester with lab)
University of Texas at San Antonio (no lab required)
University of Wisconsin (no lab required)
Keck School of Medicine at University of Southern California
UC Irvine (no lab required)
Florida State (no lab required)
University of Florida (one semester with lab)
University of Hawaii (no lab required)