

Haverford College
Magill Library

This recording of oral history interviews may be used by scholars in accordance with the general procedures established by the Haverford College Library and for such other purposes as Haverford College may specify. The interviewee(s) hereby irrevocably transfer and assign to Haverford College all right, title and interest that the interviewee(s) may have in the interview and any other donated materials, including without limitation, any copyright for the full copyright term and any renewals and extensions thereof throughout the world. The interviewee(s) also grant Haverford College the right to use the name, voice and if appropriate, the image of the interviewee(s) in connection to Haverford College's use of the interview and any other donated materials. The interviewee(s) further acknowledge that Haverford College shall own the physical media in which the interview is recorded and any other donated materials.

The interviewee(s) may request permission from Haverford College Library in writing to reuse all or part of the interview without revision or modification, which permission shall not be unreasonably refused. The interviewee(s) may listen to the recording at the Haverford College Library during normal library hours and in accordance with the general procedures established by the Haverford College Library. The interviewee(s) may choose to sequester or otherwise prohibit or restrict the use or dissemination of the recording for a limited period of time as specified below.

Understood and agreed to:

_____ (signed)

_____ (dated)

DONATED MATERIALS:

Recorded conversation between _____ and _____

Other materials: _____

RESTRICTIONS ON USE FOR LIMITED TIME:

(Interviewer for the College) (date)

9/22/03: This oral history release form has been approved by Haverford College counsel, Terrence Dixon. member of the firm of Dechert, Price & Rhoads.