975 A-C - JOURNALS, DIARIES, ETC. 1683-[ongoing]. Ca. 700 items
Presented by various donors. 1915 ff.

This collection consists of manuscript books of all descriptions - journals, diaries, commonplace books, scrapbooks, account books, memorandum books, collections of letters, typewritten copies, and other miscellaneous items.

Among the most important might be mentioned the diaries of the two Jacob Elfreths of Philadelphia, in 113 volumes, covering the years 1814 to 1924 and recording personal items of this father and son, as well as political events and Philadelphia weather. Joshua Longstreth Baily (1826-1916), also of Philadelphia, left a journal and memorandum books consisting of forty-five volumes, commenced when he was but nineteen years old and continued until the year of his death. The "Revolutionary Journal" of Margaret Hill Morris describes her experiences during the British occupation of Philadelphia, 1776-78; the Journal of George Churchman tells of Quaker meeting affairs and his travels in the ministry, 1759- 1813; the diaries of Thomas Pim Cope (1768-1854)*, the founder of the steamship company operating the Cope Packet Ships, relate principally to his shipping and philanthropic interests; a manuscript copy of the Journal of Joseph Hoag (1762-1846), dictated by him and taken down by his granddaughter, Narcissa Battey; Journal of William Hunt's "Travels in the Service of Truth", 1748-1772; two small journals of James Logan, giving an account of his voyage to Great Britain in 1709 and his return to Pennsylvania in 1711. The Journal of William Savery in four volumes describes his travels in the ministry in the United States, Great Britain and Europe, 1794-1798. The so-called "Richardson MSS." contains contemporary copies of the Epistles and Sermons of George Fox (with a typewritten copy). One of the most interesting scrapbooks is that of Elizabeth Underhill Willis (1790?-1869), in a handsome rosewood box, in which she has pasted Quaker pictures, portraits, samplers, clippings and other items. A scrapbook compiled by Joseph S. Elkinton (1830-1905) contains 581 obituary and funeral notices, ranging in date from 1789 to 1905. Among the commonplace books are those of Martha Allinson, Hannah Logan Fisher, Samuel Garrigues, Margaret Wood Shoemaker, and others.

These manuscript volumes are arranged on the shelves in three different categories:

- (A) The larger volumes which stand on the shelves;
- (B) The smaller works which are arranged alphabetically in boxes;
- (C) The larger multiple-part works in boxes

*A restriction on these diaries was lifted in 1976
