

Spanish/Independent College Programs 240

An interdisciplinary exploration of Latin America, Spain, and Portugal. Topics include imperial expansion, colonialism, independence, and revolution. This course, taught in English, is designed to serve as the introduction to the Area of Concentration in Latin American and Iberian Studies. It is offered at Haverford by Roberto Castillo and at Bryn Mawr by Enrique Sacerio Garí on alternating years.

4 short essays on specific readings (3-5 pp.)	30%
Take-home Midterm Examination	20%
Class participation	20%
Group oral report	10%
Final Essay	20%