Environmental Conservation
at Asa Wright Nature Center
Trinidad and Tobago
June 4 – August 1, 2020 (tentative)

The CPGC and the KINSC are offering one summer internship placement in Trinidad and Tobago.

ASA WRIGHT NATURE CENTER (1 intern):

The AWNC is a “Not-for-Profit” Trust established in 1967 by a group of naturalists and bird-watchers to “protect part of the Arima Valley in a natural state and to create a conservation and study area for the protection of wildlife and for the enjoyment of all.” It was one of the first nature centres to be established in the Caribbean. Comprising nearly 1,500 acres of mainly forested land in the Arima and Aripo Valleys of the Northern Range, the AWNC’s properties will be retained under forest cover in perpetuity, to protect the community watershed and provide important wildlife habitat. The AWNC has developed its efforts in three major areas: Education, Conservation, and Ecotourism. It is now widely recognized as one of the most successful ecotourism stories in the world.

2020 summer internship:

The use of its resources to promote conservation through education and research, are among the top priorities of the Asa Wright Nature Centre. The AWNC has traditionally been a leader among the conservation NGOs with respect to conservation education and research in Trinidad and Tobago, through support of environmental publications, posters, school tours, tropical ecology research and community outreach programs.

The intern will live at the AWNC, working on conservation and education programs designed to increase the awareness and support of local people for conservation of the native wildlife, and to facilitate sustainable development in the communities surrounding the Nature Centre. These projects can and will be varied, and may include:

- Contributing to AWNC's project on the rare bird, the Trinidad piping guan
- Constructing a floral or other inventory of the Arima Valley, as represented at AWNC
- Developing environmental education modules about flood control, conservation, or wastewater treatment
- Learning how to act as an eco-tourism guide for international tourists at AWNC
- Helping facilitate education of students from summer camps and/or schools as necessary, to learn about conservation and environmental issues
- Assisting with the production of the Centre’s newsletter and marketing the Center on social media
- Assisting with the daily operations of the nature centre
The intern will have the opportunity to participate in trips to eco-tourism sites around Trinidad.

This internship will require a balance of desk work, field work, and community interaction. This intern will be acting to support and assist the work of the conservation officer at AwNC, with the option of creating or starting their own conservation research project based on the Centre’s needs and priorities.

NUTS AND BOLTS

Eligibility and Application: This internship is open to Haverford and Bryn Mawr students. Before applying, please visit the Asa Wright website. Applicants must submit an application form, an unofficial transcript, and a recommendation form completed by a faculty member. Apply through CPGC’s website. Preference will be given to students with relevant backgrounds or interests (e.g., Biology, Environmental Studies).

CPGC’s Fellowships for Global Citizenship Program: This summer internship is part of a larger fellowship that offers a comprehensive preparatory and reentry program along with funding and support during your summer engagement with these organizations. Prior to the summer internship, CPGC staff, faculty and community partners will help students build on their passions and capacities for ethical engagement and social change action. Fellows continue their journey through a re-entry course upon returning to campus in the fall. More specific information about these crucial elements of the Fellowship program can be found on the CPGC website. Interested applicants must meet with the Manager of International Programs, Stephanie Zukerman.

Prior to departure (April/May), Fellows will be expected to attend meetings with their cohort to build connections with each other and their hosts, and to begin the logistical and emotional preparation for living abroad, including receiving health advice from a travel doctor.

Stipend: During this eight-week program, the CPGC will cover interns’ expenses for food, flights and ground transportation, lodging, and visas. The Center will pay the Summer Earning Expectation for students with that stipulation in their 2020-21 financial aid package.

Deadline: The deadline for this internship is Sunday, February 2, 2020 via the “ASA WRIGHT Partnership” application on the CPGC’s online application platform. Selected applicant will be contacted for an interview in mid to late February.
