Summer Internship Description

The Colored Girls Museum is a memoir museum, which honors the stories, experiences, and history of ordinary Colored Girls. This museum initiates the object—submitted by the colored girl herself, as representative of an aspect of her story and personal history, which she finds meaningful; her object embodies her experience and expression of being a Colored Girl. The Colored Girls Museum is headquartered in the historic neighborhood of Germantown in Philadelphia, an area renowned for its historic buildings and homes.

Social Justice and community based organizations require a diversity of roles in order to create change. The Archival Intern will have the opportunity to support the staff of the museum, by creating a system for digital archiving and organizing the wide variety of documents that support and emerge from our various initiatives. For over five years we have produced and collected countless documents including photographs of our exhibitions and events, grant applications, curriculum for our education programs, and more. We are also seeking an intern that would help us build our database of black visual artists in Philadelphia. The intern will have an opportunity to interface with all departments of the organization and understand our history, by helping us gather and create a digital archive that not only functions as a record of our work to date, but also supports our continuing work in the present. Additional duties may include documenting the history of the museum’s house, land, and neighborhood. The intern is encouraged to initiate one project of their own based on their own interests and skills once on site. We ask candidates to propose a special project in their cover letter.
